Economic Characteristics

The Parish has the following economic characteristics:-

- The 2011 Census revealed that 62.7% (417) resident parishioners in the age range 16 – 74 years old were economically active. This is below the East Devon district economic activity rate of 67.3% and the rate for England of 69.9%. This demonstrates that the Parish has a weaker economic base of workers and is reflective of the higher than average proportion of retired residents (29.0% residents retired compared to 22.4% in East Devon district and 13.7% for England).
- The number of self-employed people in the Parish in 2011 was 97 people or 23.3% of the economically active population. This compares to a rate of 20.9% for the East Devon economically active population and the rate for England of 14.0%. In addition 11.3% of the resident workforce aged 16-74 worked from home in 2011 compared to 9.7% in East Devon District and 5.4% in England.
- The resident population (16+) is highly skilled with a higher than average number of well-qualified persons, with 350 (43.3%) having level 4 qualifications and above (compared to 29.1% for East Devon District and 27.4% for England). In addition a high proportion of the resident working population (16-74) are employed in professional occupations or work as managers, directors or senior officials (39.0% compared to 27.5% in East Devon District and 28.4% in England).
- In relation to the industry in which the residents aged 16-74 worked in 2011, the five main sectors were: - Human health and social services (56); Wholesale/Retail Trade: repair of motor vehicles and cycles (56); Education (54); Construction (33); and Accommodation and Food Services (32).
- The predominant method of travel to work is by car, motorcycle, scooter, moped or van (75.3%). This reflects the reliance on private transport to access work and the restricted nature of public transport when accessing work opportunities.

The nature of the employment in the Parish has, like most rural areas, significantly changed over the years. Within living memory, East Budleigh supported seven retail outlets including a general store, a greengrocer, a boot and shoe shop, three public houses and, critically, until 2005, a post office. In addition, cottage industries such as lace making and cider presses were conducted within houses. In recent years a West Indian tea-room and later two restaurants providing Indian food were opened but did not prove profitable and closed after a year or two. Now the village has only retained a community shop and two public houses.

Business Enterprises in the Parish

There are several small and some larger viable business activities within the Parish. The business activities are of three main types:-

- The regionally and nationally important Bickton Arena, Bickton Park Botanical Gardens and Bickton College are all situated around 1 mile north of East Budleigh village.
- Clinton Devon Estates who are a major landowner in the Parish
- Small businesses with a few employees and based in small business premises either in East Budleigh village such as East Budleigh Garage, Carter's Cranes, the community shop and two pubs (The Rolle Arms and The Walter Raleigh) or in the open countryside such as Pooh Cottages Holiday Park and Budleigh Salterton Riding School.
- Small businesses, based in residents homes and heavily dependent on the internet, offering a range of specialist services. This group also includes a number of self-employed people such as builders who live in the Parish but do not have business premises in the Parish.

The following list is not exhaustive

Clinton Devon Estates

Clinton Devon Estates manages approximately 40 square miles of woodland, farmland and countryside throughout North and East Devon. This land is geographically divided between the Clinton Estate, situated between Sidmouth and Exmouth, the Beer Estate centred on the village of Beer in East Devon and the Heanton Estate, which lies between Hatherleigh and Torrington in North Devon.

The Estate operates a diverse range of land and countryside management activities including in-hand and tenant farms, commercial and residential property, forestry and environmental management of farmland, rivers and heathland. Some of the Estates' land has international designations for its outstanding habitats and scarce flora and fauna.

Around 50 local people are directly employed by the Estates, with many others indirectly employed as contractors and professionals. The Estates' businesses directly boost the local economy, spending over £3.5M with 1000 local suppliers annually. Commercial premises are let to local businesses. The outer Parkland to Bickton House is known as Bickton Arena and is retained by the Estate and run as the premier equestrian venue in the South West. Bickton Arena, due to its central location is now the home of the Rolle Estate Office employing 27 full- and part-time members of staff.

In working to meet the needs of a transforming countryside, Clinton Devon Estates' vision is to be amongst the leaders in the practice of 21st Century land and property management, whilst preserving the Estates' heritage and environmental assets for future generations. This aspiration chimes with the primary wish of the EBB parishioners. This is particularly important since the Estates' land-holdings in the Parish are significant and actively managed for local people, conservation and public access. Agriculture is a significant part of the Estates with five tenanted farms and part of the Home Farm within the Parish boundary. Of these farms four are run as dairy holdings and two with beef, pig's sheep and arable.
